

The Power of Positive Talk About School

Children notice the way we talk about school. When we show interest and keep our words positive, it helps them build good feelings about learning and feel supported.

WHY POSITIVE TALK MATTERS:

- It helps children feel safe and confident at school.
- It shows them that you value their learning and experiences.
- It encourages open conversations and makes them more likely to share any worries with you.

EXAMPLES OF POSITIVE QUESTIONS

- What was something fun you did at school today?
- Did you help anyone or did someone help you today?
- What's something interesting you learnt?
- Who did you enjoy spending time with today?
- Is there anything you are proud of from today?

REMEMBER

Try to focus on the good parts of the day first. If there are any concerns, let your child know you're there to listen and help. If these concerns continue or if something needs to be followed up, please communicate with your child's class teacher—working together makes a big difference.

Remember to share the positives too! If your child has enjoyed something at school or has a funny story or highlight from their day, please let their teacher know as well.

Sharing both the achievements and happy moments helps build strong relationships between families and the school.
